

Student Council Will Allot Funds To Organizations

Approximately $2400 will be considered for allotment to various clubs and organizations at the student council meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 25 at the activity period.

All college clubs and organizations are requested to send a representative and their faculty sponsor to the meeting in the board room.

This year each organization will be required to present a prepared budget for the school year showing where the apportionment from the activity fund will be spent. When the allotted money is spent, there will be no more.

Representatives of the student council said they would allot the money according to the amount of good it will do for the student body.

The following clubs and organizations plus the newly organized clubs should be represented at the meeting.

Organizations represented last year were:

Phi Theta Kappa, Apache Yearbook, Apache Band, Apache Pow Wow, Apache Belles, Atta Kula Kula and Social Affairs, Musical Activities, Engineers Club, Drama and Speech Activities, Sigma Sigma, Stones and Bones (Geology) Club, Student Council, and Future Teachers.

The new regulations are designed to allow clubs that are active, that can show where they need the money, and can show later that they are using it purposefully, to get a larger allotment than those which take the money just in case they happen to need it.

KTBB Broadcasts TJC News Program

A new show, news and music from TJC over Radio Station KTBB opened last night at 7:30. The show will become a weekly presentation carrying TJC news and music.

Last night's broadcast carried a rundown on late news, an interview with Head Football Coach Flody Wagstaff, and the five most played records on the Teepee juke box.

Station KGKB is planning a similar program, beginning next week.

Sam Nash Designs New Name Plate For Paper

The new nameplate for this issue was designed by Sam Nash, engraver for the Tyler Morning Telegraph and ex-TJC student.

Nash designed several styles and Everett Taylor, city editor of the Courier-Times, chose the one the paper has adopted.

Enrollment Is Over 1400

Unofficial reports estimate enrollment at Tyler Junior College for the fall semester at slightly over 1400. This estimate includes trade and industrial, day academic, and night academic students. Registrar Ib Rice said accurate figures would not be available for several days.

Only Tyler Junior College is included in this estimate. Reports from Tyler District College were not available.

Day academic students made up a majority of the enrollment, estimated at about 785. More than 500 evening college students and 160 trade and industrial students were listed.

Higginbotham, Holt Are New Presidents

By ED CHINNOCK

Joe Higginbotham was elected president of the sophomore class Tuesday in a meeting in the science lecture hall that was disorganized and generally confusing.

Larry Larison was elected vice-president and Cherijo McKinney was elected secretary.

In a meeting in the gym that was reportedly just as confusing, the freshman class elected Ray Holt president.

Joe Bright was elected vice-president and Jane Wilkerson secretary.

The sophomore class meeting was a riot from beginning to end.

Barbara Copeland first announced the voting would be by secret ballot. She added that all ballots must be signed to be counted.

After a number of upheavals of order, however, it was decided that it would be faster to vote by a show of hands.

After a number of those nominated declined to accept, four names were finally placed in nomination for president.

Nominated were Joe Higginbotham, Larry Larison, Von Evans, and Tommy Stewart.

The first ballot resulted in a runoff between Larison and Higginbotham.

The runoff vote resulted in a tie.

Acting president "Rusty" Ingram said there may have been a mistake in the counting of the votes, so she called for another count. According to parliamentary law, however, the president is supposed to break a tie with his or her vote, not let it break itself.

Anyway, the recount showed that Higginbotham won, although his margin of victory was not announced.

In his acceptance speech, Higginbotham said he would "try to do a good job." He added that he didn't know much about the job, but would try to find out all he could.

Wise Succeeds Pinkerton As Trustee Board President

Tyler Junior College begins its thirty-first year under the direction of the new Board of Trustees president Watson W. Wise. Retiring president is P. C. Pinkerton, who has served in the presidency since 1949 and is beginning his twenty-sixth year as a member of the board.

Both men emphasized the "remarkable and necessary contribution of the junior college movement in American education and especially the service of Tyler Junior College in the education of thousands of East Texas Youth."

Wise said "the junior college movement in its educational value and its incentives toward progress in educational standards is second to none today as an invitation to youth's technical or scholastic further quest for knowledge and preparation for good citizenship."

He outlined the three-fold purpose of the junior college movement as fulfilling an American educational need which no other institution of higher learning can do.

Many high school graduates, he said, "have aptitudes and artisan proficiencies that can best be served by terminal education or trade school possibilities." The junior college can prepare them for vocations without a four-year delay.

He cited statistics showing approximately 35 per cent of college freshmen do not enter the sophomore year and still another 15 per cent do not enter their junior year. Thus, the junior college can handle the 50 per cent total, preparing them for vocations.

A large percentage of pre-professional students who are financially handicapped can be means of the junior college obtain two years of college at a minimum expense.

The tremendous increase in college attendance in the last two years has overpopulated classrooms, and here the junior college makes its third great contribution by permitting first and second year students to find an "adequate program of education as a preface to any senior college of his choice," Wise explained.

He advocated a more thorough guidance program in high school. "Both junior and senior institutions would be implemented by such a program," he said. Aptitude and ability tests beginning at the close of the freshman year in high school and close counsel by instructors each year would prepare the student to make a desirable occupational choice when he entered college.

His opinion of TJC was the same as that of many educators who rank it as one of the finest junior colleges in the nation.

Both men were high in praise of Dr. Jenkins' contributions to TJC and to the junior college movement through his efforts as a member of the National Accreditation Committee and other committees and associations.

As for TJC, Pinkerton said he had watched the college grow through its 30 years, and "it has been wonderful," he added.

"My 25 years of work at TJC has been an investment. It has been a pleasure to serve the youth."

Pinkerton became a member of the board April 1, 1950 by appointment. The office became elective in 1950. He has served two terms through election.

He became president of Tyler High School and Tyler Junior College, then called the Tyler Board of Education, in Oct. 10, 1949. The board separated in 1950, and he served as president of both for eighteen months.

He has served the college under its two presidents, J. M. Hodges, now president of Wharton Junior College, and Dr. Jenkins.

He has had two daughters and three sons graduate from TJC. They are Virginia Buchanan of Shreveport and Mrs. R. R. Sessions of Marshall, a P.E. teacher; Pickens Pinkerton Jr. and Travis Pinkerton, engineers and Dr. J. T. Pinkerton, local veterinarian.

Wise is owner of the Wise Drilling Account and the Wise Operating Company of Tyler. He is vice-president of the Texas Rose Festival and a director of the East Texas Hospital Foundation. He is also chairman of the Good Neighbor of Texas.

In 1951, he was in Europe on assignment from Ambassador Charles M. Spofford and in 1949 was special consultant to Ambassador - at - Large John Sherman Cooper.

Improvements Added To TJC Since End Of Last Semester

By ED CHINNOCK

It's not just the freshmen who walked into a new world their first day at TJC this semester. With all the changes the campus has undergone since last year, sophomores too are getting a lot of surprises.

The most outstanding addition to the campus is the new W. A. Wise Fine Arts Building.

Dedicated to the proposition that "The Heritage of Art Speaks the Spirit and Beauty of All Ages," this building has been called "representative of one of the finer junior college auditorium-fine arts buildings of the southwest."

The Fine Arts Building is expected to rejuvenate the college Fine Arts program, and certainly collegiate artists could not ask for a more pleasant or better equipped place to work.

There is a stage large enough for any performance, but not too large to exceed the capacities of the student actors and musicians who will perform on it.

There are upstairs dressing rooms, a new development in college theater. There is plenty of backstage room and storage space. Acoustics in the building are considered excellent.

Audiences will watch performances in luxurious mohair seats. They will enjoy intermission in a walnut and marble foyer.

Outside the building, but visible from the classrooms and cinemascopic picture windows of the auditorium is a patio with a statuary fountain. On the west side of the building is a small garden.

The air conditioned new building was named for William A. Wise, father of Watson W. Wise, president of the board of trustees, who with his sister, Mrs. Ruth W. Ranck of Oklahoma City, gave TJC a "large gift" which made possible additional luxuries for the new building as well as other improvements on the campus.

A second imposing campus improvement is the 60 foot Ramey tower.

Most students have already gained enthusiastic appreciation for the tower because it houses the large air-conditioning units that cools the library.

The tower, rising above the roofs of all other buildings, lends a new and solemn dignity to the campus.

A tower was a luxury out of CHEERLEADERS FOR 1956-57—They'll be responsible for getting the student body behind the Apaches at football and basketball games and in pep rallies. Left to right, sitting, are Karli Olson, Caldwell, New Jersey; Marsha Maness, Rusk; Zelda Dozier, Tyler, student at Texas Eastern School of Nursing. Standing are Larry Larison, Karen Wilson, and Fred Sale, all of Tyler.

President's Welcome

It is a pleasant privilege to welcome the faculty and students as we begin the college year 1956-57. We begin our work this year under the most promising circumstances ever.

The campus in general is being beautified and completed; the new air-conditioned Wise Fine Arts-Auditorium is almost completed; the Library and Student Center are now air-conditioned; and the Ramey Tower adds distinction and beauty to the campus.

An outstanding faculty, exemplifying the finest junior college standards, has been assembled and we have in our student body hundreds of Apaches back from last year, as well as hundreds of other splendid young people coming to the Apache Tribe for the first time.

It is a good beginning. I hope you will all devote yourselves fully to making the best use of the opportunities which we have, so that this college year will be of the utmost pleasure and profit for everyone.

Sincerely,
H. E. JENKINS, President.

Nine Instructors Added To Faculty

Nine new instructors were added to the day college faculty this semester.

Council Officers Welcome Students

By Jack Pollard

The Student Council of Tyler Junior College welcomes each student to our reservation. We hope that both the new students and the returning students will soon find their places in the clubs and the planned activities. If there is anything which Rusty, Suzan, or I can do to help you find a more active place in campus life, let us know about it. We want every student to realize the important role which he or she plays in the clubs and activities at TJC.

I was pleased to meet many students at TJC during out Get-Acquainted Week, and I hope to meet each member of the Apache student body in the near future.

In connection with Get-Acquainted Week, Romona Taylor and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company deserve a thank you from all of us. Romona did a fine job as chairman of the student council Get-Acquainted Week Committee. The Cokes for our first assembly were given to us by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

To help co-ordinate the activities and meetings of clubs, Tommy Stewart is serving as chairman of the Student Council Clubs Committee. Tommy will try to visit with officers of each organization on our campus and to help plan their meetings and activities at times where there will be the fewest conflicts. If your club has or wants an activity to sponsor, Tommy will schedule yours or help your club find an activity to sponsor.

The success of the activities, clubs, and athletics depends upon you. If we are to have many dances, active clubs, and winning football and basketball teams, you must accept the obligation of making these things a reality. I hope everyone will get in the swing of things and make this a year that each of us will long remember.

Phi Thetas Discuss Program

In an organizational meeting of Phi Theta Kappa held yesterday, members discussed the year's projects and set a schedule of probable meeting dates for the year.

Newly elected President Clayton Helfin presided. Helfin and his fellow officers Vice-president Bob Straubinger, Secretary Joyce Segrist, and Treasurer Wayne Brodnax said they were encouraging students to meet the scholastic standards of Phi Theta Kappa.

Alpha Omicron is the local chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, a national junior college scholastic honor society. Membership is restricted to 10 per cent of the college enrollment. Grade requirements consist of a 2.5 grade average, a full 15 hour course of study, 12 of which must apply to an arts or science course.

The minimum average necessary for admission would be three A's and two B's and the student must have completed one full semester of college work under the above specifications. All students subject to admission must have the acknowledgement of their instructors that they received grades by honest endeavor.

Object of the society is to promote scholarship, develop character, and give some honor to those students who show true scholastic spirit in college.

Dance Instructors To Appear Tuesday On AKK Program

The various new steps in modern dancing will be demonstrated by Arthur Murray Studio instructors at the first meeting of Atta Kula Kula, an all girls organization, Tuesday, Sept. 25 at 10:16 in Gentry Gym.

A secretary will be elected at the meeting by girls. Refreshments will be served.

President Ann Elizabeth Ray and Vice-President Mary Lillian Stewart were elected during last spring's annual AKK luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Caldwell at the Woman's Building. Miss Elizabeth Bryarly, dean of women, is faculty advisor.

The AKK program for this year: Panel Discussion in Science Lecture Hall, Oct. 23, Stunts in Gym Nov. 27; Christmas Party in auditorium Dec. 20; Don Fenton, hair stylist, in Science Lecture Hall Jan. 9; Variety Show Feb. 26; Style Show in Auditorium March 26, and Pantomime Quiz in auditorium April 23.

Stokes Fills Position As Assistant Librarian

The position of assistant librarian added to the faculty this semester has been filled by Mrs. Ethel Stokes, who has resided in Tyler for 20 years. Mrs. Stokes is also director of the reopened college cafeteria.

Sophs Can Earn Service From Frosh

Alert TJC sophomores can earn themselves "free service" in the TeePee and cafeteria this week and next by catching a freshman without his beanie.

They have the authority to enforce the set of rules made earlier by the student council.

Penalties for not wearing the beanies include: CAMPUS AND THE HALLS—freshman must carry books of upperclassman catching him; LIBRARY—he must dust the statues supervised by upperclassman; TEEPEE—freshman must "feed" the juke box five cents; CAFETERIA—freshman must let upperclassman catching him in front of him in line. At tables he is to clean off the table when sophomore finishes his meal.

Freshmen caught without a beanie off-campus is at his own risk! It is understood, however, that freshmen are not required to wear their beanies to church.

The sophomore catching a freshman must sign a note stating in ink where and when he caught him. This prevents a double penalty being given by one upperclassman for freshman caught in the same location.

Beanies must be worn until Sept. 28.

Dear Student:
I'm writing this direct to you because you are at the most important stage in your life.
Your whole future may depend on your success in college. To you success has become an important word. Success in life through your career and through friends and contacts made in college. Months, and even years of work, lie ahead of you, but the key to success doesn't lie in work alone, but in the ability to adjust to situations and to people. If there were a key to success, it would be through dancing.

In my many years of teaching, I have learned that anyone can learn to dance, for everyone is born with a sense of rhythm. But just knowing the right steps and being able to keep time to the music is not enough when it comes to being a really popular partner. You must have confidence in yourself and in your ability, too.

True . . . confidence does come with knowledge. As you learn to dance, you unconsciously acquire a certain ease and self-assurance. What wonderful results come from dancing! Shy students seem to blossom. Their dormant personalities come to life.

What a pity it is that so many of you will miss out on the fun that should be part of your college life just because you don't know how to dance. It's particularly sad when you realize that everyone has the natural ability to dance . . . and that you can develop that natural ability so quickly and easily with the personal instructions at Arthur Murray's.

Good dancers always have fun. Don't miss out on any more parties . . . be able to accept your next dancing invitation.

Managerial Director.

Choir Program Plan Has Unlimited Possibilities

By MARQUELL LEDFORD

The college has facilities and leadership for one of the finest of choirs — but it lacks voices. It lacks the response of students who have the necessary experience and background to make the kind of concert choir a director hopes for.

"We need experienced voices, and we are in critical need of sopranos," director of the choir, Dale Stonecipher said. The 32-member group falls short of Stonecipher's expectations for the new two-choir program outlined. He needs 30 select voices for the Concert Choir alone, and that many for the College Singers group. Membership is still open in both choirs.

Earlier plans of the Texas Eastern School of Music called for the two choirs this year. Men in the Concert Choir will wear tuxedos and the girls will wear evening dresses. Both will sing classical and lighter music.

Scheduled plans for the Concert Choir includes a Spring Festival and a spring tour, probably in April or May. The group will also present programs at various churches and civic organizations, at luncheons and other gatherings. The Concert Choir will present a repeat performance of "Amahl and the Night Visitors," the Gian Carlo-Menotti Christmas opera which received wide critical and public acclaim when performed in the Civic Auditorium last December. This year a portion of "The Messiah" will be added to the program to give the audience a richer musical evening.

The College Singers is open to anyone who wants to be a member of a singing group or who wants choir for credit. Members of both choirs will receive one semester hour credit for each semester's work.

Though the program for the Singers has not been worked out, according to Stonecipher it will be similar to that of the Concert Choir, but not as extensive. He said the Singers would probably participate in the Spring Festival.

Stonecipher, in this third year at TJC as voice instructor, has had wide professional experience and extensive musical training. He received his bachelor's degree in music from Northwestern State College in Natchitoches, La. and his masters from Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He has done work toward a doctorate at Indiana University. His previous college teaching was at Louisiana Baptist College in Pineville, La. and at Northwestern State College.

He has played the leading role in such diverse musical productions as "Faust," "Gilbert and Sullivan," "On the Town," and "Lost in the Stars."

Tradition Set For Sophomores

Tradition often begins with a seemingly inconsequential occasion. Such an occasion, a variety show, better than the average, but just a student variety show purely for entertainment at 25 cents a student, bids for a seat in TJC tradition.

Last April 24, three sophomore English classes under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Bryarly presented a variety show in Gentry Gym, the money received to be used to buy books for the English departments. Student response begged for others of its kind.

Miss Bryarly said the show would probably be an annual occasion and that the net returns would be used to purchase special English books for the sophomores.

Last week, all but two of the books arrived and are now on the shelf of the English department. They include Poetry and Criticism of the Romantic Period by Oscar James Campbell and J. F. A. Pyre, A Browning Handbook by William Clyde DeVane, A Guide Through the Romantic Movement by Ernest Bernbaum, Shelly's Major Poetry by Carlos Baker, the Best of Byron by Richard Ashley Rice, Complete Poetical Works of Shelley by Thomas Hutchinson, Essays in Criticism by Matthew Arnold.

Also, Literary Studies, Vols. 1 and 2 by Walter Bagehot, Virginius Puerisque by R. L. Stevenson, and Essays, Vols. 1 and 2 by Thomas Carlyle.

The books will be valuable in research papers dealing with the Romantic Period. Two more books will be added when they are delivered to the book store.

Bible Center Activities Open To All Students

Students of all faiths are invited to drop in at both the Methodist and Baptist Bible centers just off the campus. Daily activities such as chess, pingpong, television, and reading offer recreation. Special programs throughout the year will be prepared by directors and student leaders.

A Martin Luther film based on the book "Here I Stand," by Roland Bainton, will be shown at the Methodist Student Center, Monday Oct. 1, 7 p.m. The film will serve to begin the Methodist student movement for the year.

The Reverend John Rentfro, a graduate of Southwestern University and the Perkins School of Theology at SMU, is in his second year as director of the Methodist Chair.

The Reverend Leo S. Rudd, a graduate of William Jewell College, Libertyville, Mo., is in his fifth year as director of the Baptist Chair.

Mr. Rudd invites students of all faiths to attend and participate in the regular weekly Baptist Student Union meetings held each Thursday morning at 10:16.

The directors said the primary concern of both chairs was to offer students an opportunity for counseling, both in personal and academic problems. Three hour credit value Bible courses in the Old and New Testament are being taught in both centers.

Apache Yearbook Staff To Select Members Today

A meeting to choose the remaining members of the '56 Apache Yearbook staff will be held in Room 105 today at 10:16. Anyone interested in joining the staff is invited to be in today's meeting.

Editor-in-chief Dewey McDonald said positions were open for eight section editors and several assistant section editors.

Members yet to be chosen are two associate editors, two editors for the band and belles section, editor and assistants for personalities, organizations editor, sports editor, and campus life editor.

The Apache Yearbook is planned and produced by TJC students. All photography, art work, and make-up are done by students.

This year's edition will contain approximately 160 pages, 850 pictures, and 15 pages of art work. Sections included are personality, beauty, band and belles, athletic, classes, organizations, and campus life. The annual is financed through sale of advertisements and books.

Staff members already chosen besides McDonald are Eddie Cohen, business manager; Rolan Crawford, photographer; Ann Yancy, art editor; and Nelwyn Williams, beauty editor.

Mrs. Averille Greenhaw, head of the home economics department, is faculty advisor this year. She succeeds Miss Mildred Howell, former foreign language instructor, who retired last year. Miss Howell had sponsored the yearbook since its origin.

TJC Students Marry During Summer Months

Among students returning to or entering TJC after recent marriages are:

Kelly-Page

Mary Kelly became the bride of Charles Ronald Page, Saturday, August 4, at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The bride, a graduate of Tyler High School and now a TJC freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Paine, 1135 Skyline Drive. Page, a graduate of Tyler High School and TJC, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Page, 1806 Garden Valley Road.

The couple has made their home at 1734 Garden Valley Road.

Sabens-Zancker

The First Christian Church of Tyler was the scene of the August 21 marriage of Elizabeth Sabens and Richard Zancker.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. R. Sabens, 1001 Troup highway, graduated from Tyler High School. Zancker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Zancker, 1414 Golden Road, also graduated from Tyler High School. Both are now TJC freshmen.

They are making their home at 625 Augusta.

Change 'Pow Wow'?

Three times in the 31 years of its existence the name of the TJC newspaper has been changed. A fourth change is now being considered.

Some of the criticisms aimed at the name "Pow Wow," are that it is too informal; it sounds too much like a high school name, which although fine for a high school paper, is too immature for a college. Professional critics from other colleges and universities have looked with disfavor on "Pow Wow." It's meaningless, not collegiate, too narrow for its purpose, they have said.

On the other hand, there are those who want "Pow Wow" forever kept in the nameplate. Tradition and sentiment alone should keep it there; it's distinctive, they say.

Scanning the yellowed pages of past copies, one finds the college paper beginning with bits of news placed on the college bulletin board in 1925. A few months later the students of TJC had a column in the Tyler Courier-Times outlining weekly campus news briefs.

In 1926 TJC and Tyler High School students jointly formed the "Apache-Lion Pow Wow." The two schools being annexed at that time. In 1927 the "Apache Pow Wow" became an independent newspaper.

To eliminate confusion with the TJC yearbook, "Apache," the name of the paper was shortened in 1948 to simply "The Pow Wow."

Now, eight years later, another change looks probable.

Last year's journalism classes gave the question serious concern. Through their suggestion, "The TJC News" evolved as a favorable nameplate.

But a college paper is not a commercial enterprise. It belongs to the readers. Any change in name will be influenced by reader majority.

Does the maturity and growth of the college in eight years justify giving the college newspaper a new name with added dignity . . . a name that will demand respect for the paper and the college it represents wherever it is read?

What is your opinion?

Send, or bring your suggestions to the editor, Ed Chinnock. No unsigned letters will be considered.

No More Big Editions

In accord with a change of policy, the Pow Wow will publish no edition larger than eight pages. There will be no more 12 or 16 page editions. Since many students and faculty members will expect these enlarged editions preceding the Kilgore football game, Career Day, and Graduation, the staff thought it necessary to explain their new position.

T. B. Butler Publishing Company could not renew our contract if we published the big papers this year. Their own two daily papers are growing in size and circulation and actually require their full man-power. Our 12 or 16 pages is too heavy as an additional load.

The staff has agreed to the eight-page limit. They have also agreed to stress quality rather than quantity in each paper. Although the Associated Collegiate Press awarded the Pow Wow a first place rating last year, they also offered some important criticisms. Mistakes were made in layout, art, and copy that could be corrected. Many were caused last year by concentration on speed in the big editions. The staff was too small to handle these issues.

The same number of people are on the staff this year. This year, however, more emphasis will be placed on improvement of the Pow Wow, and that improvement will be an easier job. Everyone will know exactly how much news can be included in each issue, therefore plans can be made ahead, and stories can be written with less deadline pressure.

Readers may miss the thrill of seeing big editions. They will not get as complete a picture of Apache athletic and traditions as the 16-page Kilgore issue gave them, or as much college atmosphere as the Career Day issue gave.

From an advertising angle, revenue will be decreased since not as many ads can be included. However the advertisers themselves will not be hurt because the number of pages doesn't affect the number of copies printed.

The TJC Pow Wow

The Pow Wow, official newspaper of Tyler Junior College, is published every other Thursday, except during holidays and examinations, by the Journalism class.

The views presented are those of the staff and do not necessarily reflect administration policies of the college. Signed articles are the views of the writer, not necessarily of the Pow Wow staff.

Letters to the editor must be signed, though initials may be used if the writer requests them.

A Pause For Inspiration

KNOWING

By LEO S. RUDD, Director
TJC Baptist Bible Choir

There is a vast difference between hearsay and sight.

We may read books of travel that tell of scenes of great beauty or historic interest, and may think we know all about it, but it is always an epoch when our own eyes look for the first time upon the snowy summit of an Alp, or for the first time at the Parthenon on its rocky height.

We know there is a vast difference between hearsay and experience.

We read books of the poets that portray love and sorrow, and the other emotions that make up our throbbing, changing life; we need to go through the mill ourselves before we understand what the grip of affliction is; and we need to have our own hearts dilated by a true affection before we know the sweetness of love. Men tell us about it but we must feel it ourselves before we know.

To come closer: we know the difference between hearing about a man and making his acquaintance. We may hear much about him and his character; but when we come face to face with him and actually experience the magnetism of his presence, or come under the influence of his character, then we know that our former acquaintance by hearsay was but superficial.

"I have heard of you by the hearing of the ear, but now my eyes see you." Can you say that? If so, then you understand the text of Isaiah 60 verse, 16:

"Thou shalt know that I the Lord and Thy Savior, and Thy Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob. They shall no more teach every man . . . his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord, and make acquaintance with Him,' as if He were a stranger . . . for all shall know Me, from the least to the greatest."

There is all the difference between knowing about God and knowing God; just as there is a difference between dogma and life, between theology and religion.

We may have all the articles of Christian creeds clear in our understanding and may owe our possessions to other people's teaching; we may in a sense believe them and yet they may be absolutely outside our lives.

It is only when they pass into the very substance of our being, and influence the springs of our conduct . . . it is only then that we know God.

It is then we can say with Paul, "I know whom I have believed."

reach until Thomas B. Ramey, Tyler lawyer, generously gave the college the money.

When rains pound the campus this winter and in the early spring, the change that will then affect the comfort of most students will be neither the Fine Arts Building nor the Tower.

Rather, it will be the long arcade that connects the Main Building with the Teepee.

All sophomores remember last winter's desperate dashes across the parking lot, and how soaked their clothes were afterward.

There will be none of that this year. Students can now walk under the arcade to the Teepee, and go in through a special entrance at the rear. The entrance was also added this summer.

The tall continental-type ornamental ironwork supports of the new arcade add a sort of old-world charm to the campus, and attractive as well as a utilitarian.

Remember that half-acre of ruts, gulleys, and hardened blacktop on the east part of the campus that served as a parking lot last year?

Take a look at that half-acre now. It still serves as a parking lot, but instead of being just a lot of ditches, it's covered with asphalt, a parking lot for students and instructors' cars.

The Fine Arts Building, The Tower, the arcade, and the new parking lot are only four of many improvements made at TJC since last spring. There are many more planned for you.

'Bus Stop' Poorly Adapted

By Ed Chinnock

The movie "Bus Stop" which closed last week at the Tyler theatre, managed to prove one point vividly. It is this: although the movie industry has cinarama, cinemascope, stereophonic sound, and Marilyn Monroe, there are still some novels, some stories, some plays which simply cannot be successfully adapted to the screen.

As a play by William Inge, "Bus Stop" was a hit on Broadway. The published version of the script proved popular with readers. But as a movie, "Bus Stop" reminds me of a cartoon I saw recently. Two portly movie producers, each dressed identically, smoking large cigars, and wearing large horn rimmed sun glasses, were walking across a set when one of the moguls turned to the other and said critically, "The talk around the studio, old man, is that you are becoming a caricature of yourself."

So it is with "Bus Stop." The film version is a caricature, a parody of the play.

Whereas the play was a comically fascinating study of seven fantastic people stranded at Grace's Diner, an all-night bus stop, the movie tells only of the least interesting situation and characters from the play: the cowboy, Bo Decker, and his captive "chanteuse," Cherie.

The reason for this is obvious of course. As a writer, William Inge expounds the Freudian theory that sex is the dominant force in every life. Inge's other two plays, "Come Back Little Sheba," and "Picnic" had this theme and it is also the theme of "Bus Stop." Of course, such a theme lends itself to creation of characters and incidents that aren't generally considered family entertainment.

As movie producers, Twentieth Century Fox want their pictures to make money. They won't take a chance on censorship pulling their box-office down. So with a play like "Bus Stop," the problem they face is to delete all questionable sequences they have to and leave in all they can get by with.

The situation between Grace and Carl, and the abnormal state of Dr. Lyman were too rough to get by the cutting office.

To tone them down, George Axelrod who did the screen play, made Grace into a rough talking gal who was really all bluff, and left out Dr. Lyman entirely.

These were mistakes, and fatal ones, especially with Lyman. Lyman's role in the play is third lead in a cast of seven characters. To lift him out of the screen play entirely left a big gap to fill. Axelrod filled them with a rodeo, boisterous crowd scenes, slapstick hack-writer comedy, and a couple of sequences that were just plain bad taste.

I realize that movie audiences demand more setting, more scope than Broadway audiences. Movies have the capacity to give more too. But the whole point is, a play like "Bus Stop" doesn't need the extra scope or setting.

As a play, "Bus Stop" had just enough glitter to hold it together for the evening. As a movie, with much of the original glitter missing and nothing good added, it was dry, vulgar, and exhausting.

The acting . . . Let's face it. Marilyn Monroe could never make it on her thespian abilities, no matter how long she spent at Actor's Studio. She is a stunning woman: in the past five years she has become famous the world over as the twentieth century woman glorified. I, for one, am perfectly happy to leave it like that. And she, her press agents, and her studio, would be wise to do the same. She has a passing voice and it's fine to cast her in musical comedies.

She's all right in a thing like Niagara, where the audience expects low quality and plenty of Monroe, and gets the same. But a part like Cherie demands more, much more. And Marilyn Monroe just doesn't have it to give. There's no doubt she did some hard work on the part. A number of scenes, such as the song, are evidence of that. But they do not suffice for her basic inconsistency throughout the show.

Don Murray's main problem as Bo Decker is restraint. He tends to overact. Still, his performance is rather nice. It's not interesting because he doesn't experiment. He plays Bo as one expects Bo to be. The effect is pleasing, if not memorable.

Betty Field's performance as Grace is the best of the movie. She really captures the spirit, the hardness, the tough tenderness of this earthy woman. Too bad she was given the same terrific lines in the movie that Grace had in the play.

Other acting . . . Although Arthur O'Connell tries, he doesn't come across as Virgil. He is just miscast. Hope Lang is sweet as Elma. Her part too, was chopped in the movie. Eileen Hackert is occasionally amusing as Vera, a part Axelrod dreamed up.

"The Catered Affair," opening Sunday at the Liberty Theatre, stars Ernest Borgnine, Betty Davis, Debbie Reynolds, and Barry Fitzgerald.

It tells about a Bronx mother, Bette Davis, who wants to give her daughter, Debbie Reynolds, a wedding with all the trimmings, a catered affair. This causes her husband, 1956 Academy Award winner Ernest Borgnine, plenty of trouble, both financially and otherwise. The whole thing sounds like a more serious "Father of the Bride," but it has promise, especially in casting.

No recommendation . . . I haven't seen it. But if you're in a movie mood, it's worth taking a chance on.

As usual, the crop of summer movies was grandly overrated. There were however, a few good shows. "The King and I" was refreshing. "The Bold and the Brave" was excellent, and "Autumn Leaves" was good, although it had soap opera overtones.

Future Teachers Will Meet Today

The TJC chapter of the Future Teachers Association will hold their first meeting, a coke party, today at 10:15 in the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Mary Wallace, 711 Third Street.

All students majoring in education or planning to go into the teaching profession are invited to attend.

Students will gather in the east parking lot and go from there to Mrs. Wallace's home. The informal gathering will be a get-acquainted affair with the business proceedings including the election of a president and a vice-president. The resignation of the president elect, Yvonne Galouye, was accepted earlier as she will enter TCU this semester.

About 40 members were active in FTA last year. Mrs. Wallace anticipates a greater number this year. Every education major is eligible for active membership in the local chapter.

Among plans for the FTA program this year will be visitations and observation to various schools in the Tyler Public Schools, outstanding lecturers, and socials. Past lecturers from the Tyler School system have included Dr. Hollis Moore, superintendent of Tyler schools; Dr. Jack Elder, director of curriculum; Miss Lois Perryman, primary supervisor; and Mrs. B. M. Moseley, director of speech therapy.

All chapter members will be invited to attend the annual state meeting each spring, held in a different Texas city each year. Last year's meet was in Amarillo, the two years before in Edinburgh and Huntsville.

Mrs. Wallace said FTA meetings would be held the first and third Thursdays each month at 10:15, Room 105, Main Building.

Texas Tech To Play Apaches Here Sept. 29

The Tyler Apaches will meet the Texas Tech Freshmen here Saturday night, Sept. 29 instead of the scheduled Arkansas City Junior College.

Arkansas officials cancelled the game last week because the Kansas team includes four Negroes. Rose Stadium has never been host to Negro players.

Peace Pipe Committee Weighs Student Complaints

The Student Council has created a special committee this year to hear any complaints of a student. The Peace Pipe committee is composed of the chairman, Sonny Dunagan, and freshman Barbara Dean of Whitehouse and sophomore Fred Palmer of Tyler.

The Peace Pipe committee will act as the official go-between between the student body and the student council. The committee will meet once or twice a month, depending on the amount of work to be done. Committee meetings will always be announced in advance at assembly programs.

A similar plan is now in use at the University of Texas and at several other colleges and universities.

"With the cooperation of the student body the plan should become a success here," said Jack Pollard, president of the student council.

The Peace Pipe committee is awaiting your complaints or suggestions.

Victoria JC Defeats Blinn

Victoria Junior College, member of the Longhorn Conference opened their '56 season with a convincing 26-0 victory over Blinn Junior College, of Texas Junior College Conference. The game was also Blinn's opener.

The Vikings, under the direction of Coach Rusty Russell, racked up 254 yards on the ground and 34 yards in the air. They held Blinn to minus 14 ground yards, but Blinn passed for 119 yards.

Victoria's outstanding backfield man was quarterback Floyd Dillinger. Dillinger looked especially good passing. James Sestack, fullback, also played a good ball game, and Billy Janca, tackle, was a bulwark in Victoria's line, but a thorn in Blinn's side.

Both teams played the game with key players missing. A number of Victoria lettermen were out of service with injuries or other difficulties, and five of Blinn's regulars were declared ineligible just before the game began.

Despite the big difference in scores the game was rough all the way. Victoria was set back for 120 yards in penalties, while Blinn was penalized for 105 yards.

Victoria will meet San Angelo Saturday night in a non-conference contest.

Intramural Sports Success Indicated

Student response to the new intramural sports program indicates that it will be a success according to Jack Pollard, student council president.

Enough names for two six-man football squads have already been turned in to Miss Gloria Barron in the registrar's office.

Tomorrow is designated as the last day to turn in your name. Teams will be organized by towns, clubs, or individuals. Any boy who wants to join a team should get his name to Miss Barron by tomorrow.

Softball, tennis, ping pong, billiards (pool), and possibly golf are also considered.

The basketball program will be worked out later by the committee on intramural sports headed by Billy and Mac Hall and assisted by Pollard and Dean E. M. Potter.

New Students Get Acquainted At Open House

A meet-the-TJC Apaches, meet-your friends, and general get-acquainted open house was held last Tuesday in Gentry Gym for students and faculty.

The general enthusiasm of the student body and announcement of planned activities by the student council promises a busy year for TJC.

Everybody met the '56 Apaches when Coach Babe Hallmark introduced each of them in assembly. Hallmark called on the co-operation and support of the student body in boosting the Apaches on to the national championship and the Little Rose Bowl game.

Announcements of the student council indicated the many hours of work they have already put in for planned activities. President Jack Pollard explained the intramural sports program for men. He also announced the Peace Pipe committee, a newly created committee to handle complaints of the student body.

Vice-president Rusty Ingram announced plans for the organized group, The Tribesmen. Dr. Wiley Jenkins, head of the social science department, is its sponsor.

Freshman cheerleaders were elected following tryouts.

The famous Apache Band provided swing music to the delight of the student body.

ABOUT SPORTS

Athletes All Smiles About Dorm Changes

JIMMY ACKER - TERRY VAUGHN

The Apache athletes are all smiles about the big improvement made in the athletic dorm.

The old hands were surprised to see their rooms had large steel doors replacing the wooden ones. They were even more amazed to discover tiled baths with plenty of mirrors and individual lights for shaving. And when someone announced "central heating" the boys were overjoyed.

The recent "gift" from Watson Wise, president of the board of trustees, was partially responsible for the improvements that go to make one of the finest dorms in junior colleges across the nation.

The first-class dorm is filled with first-class athletes. Some of the top ranking high school athletes in the state have joined the Tribe. To mention a few—

Football All-State Greats: Jimmy Steambarge, from Deer Park, Halfback Bubba McLean from Deer Park, Halfback Tommy Lockridge from Baytown, and from Beckville, Bobby Brevard, center.

Basketball All-State Greats: Center and Forward Johnny Johnston of Jacksonville; Billy Hall of Tyler, guard; Philip Trammell of Laredo, guard; Joe Thomas, a Big Sandy guard, and Forward John Toole from Troup.

Fourteen ex-Apaches from last year earned athletic scholarships in major senior institutions. Ten are on full football scholarships and four are on basketball.

On football: Dean Slayton and Duwayne Gandy are at Tulsa University, Jake Cottreal and Ray Toole at North Texas State, Larry Lewis, Ben Hooker and Bob Woodruff at Sam Houston; Gerald Elkins is with Northwestern in Louisiana and Max Wade at Iowa State. Max Wade is bidding for a starting role at Oklahoma A&M.

On basketball scholarships: Jerry Keller at Tennessee Tech, Russell Boone at the University of Houston, Milton Williams with the Baylor Bears, and Dee Mackey at East Texas State.

This year's Apaches are sporting new football uniforms. They have two game jerseys, a black with gold trim and a gold with black trim. The sleeves are three-quarter length, making them somewhat cooler. The pants, black with gold stripes, complete the dressy uniform.

Pep Rally Tomorrow

A student pep rally will be held Friday morning at 10:16 in the Teepee.

The football team and the Apache band will be there, as well as the cheerleaders.

Make it a point to attend the rally and help get the players ready for the important game Saturday night against Ranger.

Ranger is reported to have a potent team, and this game is an important one, just as every game is important.

Remember, a team must have an undefeated season to get to the Junior College bowl classic in California.

TJC Apaches Face Ranger Here Saturday Night

BIG ED ROBERSON — Fullback, is a potent and powerful factor in the Apache backfield. Roberson is from White Oak. He weighs 185 pounds. He played a lot of football in first two ball games, and made a terrific showing. He lugged the leather six times and picked up a total of 37 yards, or an average of 6.1 yards per carry. In the Texarkana game alone, he gained eleven yards in two carries, for an average of 5.5 yards each trip. Roberson will alternate at fullback with Joe Higginbotham in the game against Ranger Junior College here Saturday night.

Rivals Have Heavy Line; Considered Well-Rounded Club

The Tyler Junior College Apaches collide with the Rangers of Ranger Junior College Saturday night. The game will be played in Rose Stadium beginning at 8 p.m.

Little is known about the Ranger team but it is believed that the Rangers have a well rounded ball club. Advance reports have it that the Ranger's line averages 210 pounds. This is 15 pounds more per man than the Apache line averages.

The Apaches have won both games they have played so far this season. They swamped the Aggies of Northeastern Oklahoma A&M, 71-0 in their opener Sept. 8. Last Saturday, they ran over the Texarkana Junior College Bulldogs, a considerably tougher team than the Aggies, to the tune of 26-6.

The starting line-up for the Apaches this week will be the same as last week. Jimmy Steam-barge will be at left end, and Dean Fikes at right end. Tackles will be Curtis Collier and Terry Vaughn. Von Evans and Jackie Cannon will be at guards, and big Jerry Sharrock will be at center.

Billy Dickey will start at quarterback, and alternate with Phil Cyphers. Bobby Joe Wilson and Otis Hargett are lined up as starting halfbacks. Either Ed Roberson or Joe Higginbotham will be at the fullback spot.

Here's a rundown of how some TJC backfield men have performed so far this season.

Wilson has carried the leather 19 times for a total of 214 yards gained. This is the most yards any Apache has picked up so far this season. Wilson was leading ground gainer in the Texarkana game. He gained 89 yards in 11 carries.

Hargett has carried the ball 12 times for 87 total yards and an average of 7.3 yards per carry.

Roberson has an average of 6.1 yards in six carries.

Dickey has carried 16 times. He has gained 81 yards and has a 5.1 average.

The boy who gained the most ground in the Texarkana game was quarterback Cyphers. Cyphers carried the ball twice and gained 30 yards. This gave him an average of 15 yards per carry.

Halfback 'Bubba' McLean, who is expected to see plenty of action Saturday night and in every game, has the highest yard gain average for the season . . . 13.1 yards. His average in the Oklahoma game was a startling 17.8, and in the Texarkana game it was 7.4. McLean has gained 144 yards altogether this season.

JACKIE CANNON—Apache Guard, is one of the seven reasons why TJC has a line that is considered the toughest in the Longhorn Conference. Cannon, 190 pound bruiser from Shelbyville, Texas, became well known to both linemen and backfield men from Texarkana and Oklahoma A&M for his stubborn, unrelenting offensive play, and his insistent way of plowing through all opposition when on defense. Cannon was in the starting line-up for both early games, and he will also start in the Ranger tilt.

Tribesmen, School Spirit Organization Established

In an effort to increase school spirit and enthusiasm, the Tribesmen, an all-college organization, has been established.

Under the sponsorship of instructor Dr. Wiley Jenkins, the purpose of the Tribesmen is to promote school spirit and support of all college activities.

The organization will be in charge of bonfires, special pep rallies, parades, the victory bell, and Chief Win-em-all.

Membership cards are now being sold by Ann Tunnell, Bob Straubinger, and Tommy Robinson. The cards, costing 10 cents, carry this pledge:

"I will plan to participate in all Tyler Junior College activities of the year 1956-57. I will show enthusiasm and school spirit at all football games, pep rallies, assemblies, etc. I will try through my efforts to make TJC a school of unity and harmony."

Virginia Taylor, Susan Potter, Ann Tunnell, and the student nurses have been making the posters seen in the halls.

A special assembly will be held soon to elect Tribesmen officers. Only members will be permitted to vote; therefore, all students are urged to buy their cards as soon as possible.

W. L. Clay was named president of the Baptist Student Union in an organizational meeting last week. Clay is a sophomore accounting major and plans to continue his education at East Texas State next year.

Barbara Wilkerson, another sophomore, was named vice-president. Barbara will enter Baylor when she graduates from TJC.

Mrs. Frances Flaherty will represent the BSU in faculty meetings this year.

Peggy Mitchell will head the advertising committee this year. She will be in charge of the various posters distributed around the college announcing meetings and activities.

Mineola Band To Perform At Apache-Ranger Game

The Mineola High School band, under the direction of Buddy Ryland, has accepted an invitation to perform for Tyler fans when the Apaches meet Ranger Junior College here Saturday night, Apache Band Director Eddie Fowler said today.

The Apache Belles and Band will be performing at the Texhoma Benefit Bowl game at Denison that night.

A regular participant in the Rose Festival, the orange and white clad 60-piece marching band is well known to the Tyler fans for their outstanding performances.

Ryland is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin and received his Masters degree from North Texas. He is in his sixth year at Mineola.

Miss Brenda Castloo, head drum major, is also the 1956 Mineola Watermelon Queen.

The majorettes include Wanda Mills, Margaret Rowe, Diane Martindale, Cecile Bronsell, and Rose Kinney. They have won several trophies for their clever routines.

The Apache Belles and Band leave Saturday morning for Denison where they will be guest performers in the Texhoma Benefit Bowl game at Denison that night.

Mrs. Mildred Stringer, director of the Belles, said the Tyler-Texhoma conflict was due to a change in the Tyler-Ranger game site.

The original schedule called for the game to be in Ranger, a trip that because of distance, the Belles and Band would not make. Later Ranger officials asked that the site be changed to Tyler because of the enthusiastic support of Tyler fans.

The Tyler entertainers will have a full half-time show. The Texhoma classic is sponsored by the Kiwanians who select a different Texas senior college and Oklahoma senior college each year.

Mrs. Stringer expressed her regret for the 118-member band and belle group in not being in Tyler Saturday night, but said the Texhoma Bowl officials had gone to a great deal of trouble setting the date when the Belles and Band could perform.
